Competence in English

The Dental Council considers that effective English and communication skills are a pre-requisite to practising as an oral health practitioner in New Zealand. Without the necessary communication skills the informed consent and active participation of the patient may be jeopardised. You are required to demonstrate that you can comprehend and communication in English to an acceptable standard. If English is not your first language; and you haven't completed your undergraduate dental training in New Zealand, Australia, United Kingdom, USA, Eire or Canada where English is the sole language of instruction and assessment, you must sit and pass a Council-approved language competency test. The Council's English language policy http://www.dcnz.org.nz/Documents/Policy/DCNZPolicy_EnglishCompetence.pdf provides details on the approved English language tests.

Is English your first language (i.e. spoken from birth)?

Yes No

Yes No

Within the last two years have you passed a Council approved English language test to the required level?

Yes No

If English is not your first language, and your oral health training was not completed in English you must sit and pass a Council-approved language competency test to the required level and attach a copy of your English test result to this application.

Mental and Physical Condition

You are required to disclose any mental physical condition; impairment or addiction and provide full details.

Please attach an original typed and signed Hepatitis B and C report, including Hepatitis B surface antigen and antibody and Hepatitis C antibody from a New Zealand registered International Accreditation New Zealand (IANZ) laboratory or from an overseas laboratory which is party to a mutual recognition arrangement with the IANZ www.ianz.govt.nz or a laboratory registered to provide services for New Zealand Immigration. Please note that the Hepatitis report must be less than six months old at the time of receipt and you must ensure that the test request form includes in the "clinical details" section a request for your identity to be verified against your passport photograph and your passport number recorded on the form.

If you supply a report from an accredited overseas laboratory you must also provide a certified copy of the laboratory's certificate of accreditation, including a copy of the laboratory's scope of accreditation so that we can identify that the laboratory has accreditation to carry out the required Hepatitis test.

The test for Hepatitis will indicate whether:

- You have never been infected with the hepatitis B virus and never been successfully vaccinated against hepatitis B. In this case your blood will be hepatitis B surface antigen negative and hepatitis B surface antibody negative; or
- You have been infected with hepatitis B and have eliminated the infection, or been successfully vaccinated against hepatitis B. Your blood will be hepatitis B surface antigen negative and hepatitis B surface antibody positive; or
- You have been infected with hepatitis B and have failed to eliminate the infection. Your blood will be hepatitis B surface antigen positive.

If results show you have never been infected or vaccinated, you are strongly advised to be vaccinated.

If you are infected with hepatitis B we would strongly recommend that you have further specialised tests. If these tests show that you are infectious (HBeAG positive) or HBeAG negative with a high viral load demonstrated by HBV DNA you are unlikely to be eligible for registration in New Zealand. The Dental Council may however seek further advice on a case by case basis.

If the screening test for hepatitis C is positive you are strongly advised to have this followed up by hepatitis C PCR test. If this is positive you are unlikely to be eligible for registration in New Zealand. The Dental Council may however seek further advice on a case by case basis.
